

Low-cost audio test alternative for Dolby® Digital compatible devices

Prism Sound announce immediate availability of a fully automated solution for testing audio performance of DVD players and other devices compatible with Dolby ® Digital.

The Prism Sound test solution, based on the dScope Series III product, is capable of making all the necessary measurements and offers a faster and more powerful alternative but at a fraction of the cost of competitive equipment. In addition, Prism Sound offers a test development service to assist with programming and setting up of production line, QC or R&D testing including testing of Dolby Digital compatibility. Dolby licensees can contact their Account Manager for further clarification.

The dScope system is priced so that it is an attractive solution for the production line and offers the shortest test times with its unique implementation of multitone testing. In addition, dScope has the measurement performance and feature set needed for the most demanding R&D or Quality Control applications.

This means that the same test solution can be deployed throughout an organisation with the attendant benefits of compatibility of equipment between departments, easy exchange of test results and reduced learning curve.

Using Prism Sound's dS-Net I/O Switcher in conjunction with dScope, testing of multi-channel devices can be fully automated, as the task of manually connecting the various channels is eliminated.
